St. Mark's is located on Locust Street in the heart of Philadelphia, between 16th and 17th Street. The church is a brown sandstone structure seating approximately 500 persons. During the past decade St. Mark's has been renovating its church properties under the title of "parish restoration program." The attractive well-kept buildings reflect the wisdom of this program. The church, freshened by paint and other restorative measures, is a cheerful and inviting place to enter. The replacement value of St. Mark's Church is estimated to be $1,500,000.00. St. Mark's parish house is in excellent condition and the rectory, which is located next door, is also in good condition. These properties have an estimated replacement value of $2,000,000.00 and are covered by insurance amounting to $1,924,822.00.

THE CHURCH NEIGHBORHOOD

St. Mark's is in an inner-city neighborhood and nearby are the central business districts, apartment dwellings, rooming houses, single-home dwellings, a college, and a military establishment.

For the purposes of our Study some five census tracts were selected as the parish area served by St. Mark's. Within this parish area there were 23,554 persons in 1960 and by the time of our Study there were 947 members of the Episcopal Church living in this area, making up 4.0% of the total population. Out of this number there were 128 persons who belonged to St. Mark's Church, making up 13.5% of the total Episcopalians in the area and 28.5% of the parish membership.

THE CHURCH PROGRAM

PH-66

WP/sk

On the average Sunday some 360 persons attend church and church school. At the 11:00 o'clock service, which has the largest attendance, some 40% of the pew spaces are occupied. If the 11:00 o'clock service and the 9:00 o'clock service were combined approximately 82% of the pew spaces would be occupied. Daily Morning Prayer and a Celebration of the Holy Communion are conducted with attendance ranging from a low of two to a high of 32.

The church school has an enrollment of 72, including 61 students and 11 teachers and staff members. Church school classes range from kindergarten through the 10th grade. Teachers are trained on an informal basis during the course of the year. The recruiting of teachers is a major problem and might be partially overcome by teacher-training sessions. Adult education programs are limited to monthly instruction meetings and Lenten instructions. The area of adult education needs to be carefully thought out because it seems to be neglected, except for the instruction groups.

Organizations serving St. Mark's are: the Women of St. Mark's, St. Vincent's Guild for Acolyte's, the Altar Society, the Canterbury Choir, the Fellowship of Prayer, the Young People of St. Mark's, and the Vestry. A complete list of the organizational structure data is supplied with this report.

When an examination is made of the income of St. Mark's it is noted that the largest single source of income is the endowment income which at the time of our Study gave a return of $58,257.00. The congregation pledged $50,497.00 and plate offerings brought an additional $3,087.00.

When future policy, program, and budget were considered it was felt that the major opportunity facing the congregation was an opportunity to reach out for people living in the central city. A concern to increase the sense of parish family with care to include newcomers and unattached people living within the area was expressed.

Major problems facing the congregation were the high turnover of members of the congregation, and enhancing the Christian education program among young people. This was especially sensitive because of the small number of young people residing in the central city community.

III. HISTORY OF THE CONGREGATION

Please write out a short history of this congregation. How was the work started? Give the important dates and events.

The Oxford movement in England was responsible for the founding of St. Mark's Church in Philadelphia. This movement was begun in the 1830's by John Keble, a Priest of the Church of England and a Professor at Oxford University. Parliament was attempting to increase its sovereignty over the Church. In order to awaken Churchmen to the threat, he and his associates published "Tracts for the Times", in which was reasserted the doctrine of Apostolic Succession, the ministerial power of absolution, baptismal regeneration, and the Real Presence in the Eucharist.

These publications stimulated the zeal of Henry Reed, a Professor at the University of Pennsylvania, who in turn inspired a number of his friends, and the Church was completed in 1849.

These men in founding this new church wanted one which both by its services, architecture, and ornaments would adequately represent the teachings of the Church as interpreted by the Tractarians and set forth in the Book of Common Prayer. From this intent, St. Mark's has never swerved. What gives the building of St. Mark's a special interest, together with St. James the Less, is that it was ^{one} of the first churches in Philadelphia and the United States erected with the deliberate purpose of bringing Tractarian principles to fruition.

The first services held in St. Mark's took place on October 21, 1849. Advent Sunday, 1869 saw the beginning of an early and late celebration of Holy Eucharist every Sunday, and on all Prayer Book Holy Days. This has continued without interruption.

The famous, "Battle of the Bells" took place in the 1870's. Neighbors had complained that the bells interrupted their sleep and that the peace and happiness of their homes was imperiled. An injunction ensued, but it finally resulted in a compromise to permit the bells to ring at certain times on Sundays and on a number of Holy Days and on special occasions.

In 1884 the daily celebration of the Holy Eucharist was begun. This has continued without interruption. In the same year another objective was attained -- that of keeping the Church open every day throughout the year, generally from 6.30 A.M. to 6.00 P.M. This, too, has continued.

The chief treasure of St. Mark's is the Silver Altar in the Lady Chapel. This was made in England, and is considered the greatest work of English Ecclesiastical Art in Twentieth Century America. It was presented by Rodman Wanamaker in memory of his wife, Fernanda Wanamaker, who had been for many years an active and devoted member of the Parish.

During the past decades many parishioners of the Church, and their children, have moved into the suburbs. While some have retained their ties to St. Mark's, most have established new church connections. This exodus threatened the very existence of the Church. However, Rev. Emmett P. Paige has, since he became Rector in 1951, warmly welcomed people from the neighborhood, irrespective of color or race. The response has been encouraging and with the dedication and zeal of the clergy, and the growth in integration of the Parish family in response thereto, the Church is very much alive in its service to God.

A total of 450 persons were recorded on the membership distribution map and they were found scattered in many sections of the city and beyond the city limits. The highest concentrations of membership were located in the immediate vicinity of the church, in Census Tracts 7-C and 8-D. These census tracts had almost 100 church members making up 22.0% of the total membership. Such a highly scattered membership points up the need for--as the leaders of St. Mark's have so wisely provided for--programs of communication within the parish and an intensive program of advertising and public relations.

During the three-year period 1961 through 1963 the baptized membership of St. Mark's increased by 16.4%, communicant strength by 5.4%, and church school enrollment by 1.1%. The ratio of baptisms to the communicant strength during this three-year period was 4.2% and the ratio of confirmations to the communicant strength was 4.7%.

During the three-year period 1961 through 1963 a total of $309,668.00 was expended and of this amount some $46,980.00, or 15.2%, was expended for work outside the parish. It is difficult to make comparisons between the income of this church and that of other churches because of the relatively high return of endowed support.

DATA ON THE CONGREGATION

PH -66

A total of 444 persons was recorded on the Episcopal Census, and of this number some 50.7% were males and 49.3% females. Some 11.6% of the members were 14 years of age and under and 17.0% were 20 years of age or under. It is further noted that 15.3% of the members were 65 years of age and over. The age structure of the congregation reflects a similar pattern of neighborhood age structuring in the inner-city and churches throughout the United States.

Occupational classifications: About 50.2% of the church members were in non-income producing occupations: pre-students, students, housewives, retired persons and unemployed. The largest single group in this grouping was housewives with 17.0%, followed by students at 14.2%. Among the gainfully employed, and indeed among all of the church members reporting on occupations, the largest single group was made up of professional people, at 24.0%, followed by managers and sales workers.

Length of church membership in this congregation: Out of 344 respondents about 35.7% had belonged to St. Mark's Church for less than five years, and more than 50% had been associated with St. Mark's Church for less than 10 years. This indicates the relatively high turnover of church membership.

Other denominations: A total of 25 persons indicated that they belonged to another church prior to Episcopal membership and of this number the largest single group, seven persons, had come in from the Methodist Church, followed by a group of six Roman Catholics.

Educational background of adults: A total of 332 adults reported their educational background and of this number some 41.3% were college graduates and 19.0% had attended college from one to three years.

Distance from the church: Some 267 persons responded to this question and of this number 39.0% lived less than one mile from the church and some 36.1% lived four or more miles distant.

Time taken to go to church: Some 250 respondents answered this question and of this number the largest single group needed 30 or more minutes, 37.6% and 35.6% needed from 10 to 19 minutes.

DISCUSSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS

ST. MARK'S CHURCH, Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

St. Mark's Church was founded as a direct result of the Oxford Movement in the Church of England more than 100 years ago. During the past decade, the church buildings have been systematically and attractively renovated. There is much in the program of St. Mark's to commend:

1. A high degree of enthusiasm, loyalty and commitment on the part of laity and clergy.
2. Participation by church members at church services and church school classes is among the highest in the diocese.
3. Strong emphasis is placed on instruction and inspiration for all parish organizations.
4. St. Mark's has an efficient, well-organized staff, dedicated to the church and its program.
5. Although St. Mark's receives more than 50% of its income from endowments, the total amounts pledged by church members indicate, in part, their commitment to the church at home and overseas.
6. The largest single group within the membership lives within one mile of St. Mark's Church and almost 50% of the total membership lives within two miles. Although many former members now live in the suburbs and have identified with neighborhood churches, St. Mark's has been alert to seek new members from the downtown community.

St. Mark's is essentially a well-contained family unit with most of the program and ministry built around the parish church and her people. It is a good program, but it is, in the main, a self-serving one, built around institutional services and membership. St. Mark's follows the tradition of the Oxford Movement which emphasizes Catholic practice. The word Catholic carries the meaning of universality in geographical extent, of inclusiveness of all sorts and conditions and all ranks and races of men, and of continuity with the faithful who have gone on before. Catholicity implies all that makes for the wholeness of the church. This is essentially the stated purpose and emphasis of St. Mark's Church. All people are welcome, church membership is open to all who profess belief and conformity, but in our rapidly changing culture is this enough? Despite the inclusive vision, the people of God who profess their participation in the Holy Catholic Church and in the Communion of Saints repeatedly find themselves estranged from one another by every sort of historical circumstance and cultural barrier. Since St. Mark's occupies such a central position in a community area made up of several Episcopal, denominational, and Roman churches, she should be in the forefront of cooperative planning and dialogue with other church groups.

There seems to be a limited engagement, on paper, on the part of the laity of St. Mark's, when it comes to sharing in the ministry to church members and those outside of the church. It should be noted that when speaking of penetrating and influencing society and its institutions, the most proper and normal means is through the day-to-day responsible participation of the laity in their secular callings, in areas where they belong by natural right. Parish and Community Life Conferences, especially designed for St. Mark's, would be of great help in developing an understanding of the responsibility church members have for those outside their fellowship.

The Order of St. Vincent serves St. Mark's so well that the group that composed the Self-Study Form made the statement that the Order has reached a high point in its enthusiasm and interest. There are probably, within the adult members of this Order, men that could be called on to assist the clergy as parish visitors. The Order of St. Vincent might also have within its membership articulate members who could be licensed by the Bishop to assist in the services as lay readers.

St. Mark's has well-developed programs of communication and public relations. Extensive use is made of the mail service for shut-ins and persons serving in the Armed Forces, as well as for seasonal letters and programs to the membership. However, in our rapidly moving times it is necessary for frequent telephone communication to take place concerning parish matters. Active retired persons might be asked to assume responsibility for parish telephone communications.

In evaluating problems and opportunities facing this congregation the Local Study Committee suggests the need for outreach and the building-up of a program of Christian education. St. Mark's reports approximately 36% of its members live four or more miles from the church. The philosophy of the church needs to be expressed in other ways, in addition to the church assembled on Sunday. The congregation needs to be broken down into smaller groups for contemplation and for community participation wherever the members live. Even as a visible body, the church needs to come out of the church and be the church in more informal and indigenous ways. House meetings and house churches can assist St. Mark's by involving fringe members and outsiders in the geographical areas served.
